

International Congress of the Royal College of Psychiatrists

ICC Excel, London
27 - 30 June 2016

Via email

13 June 2016

Dear Dr Shahin Akhondzadeh

Royal College of Psychiatrists International Congress 27-30 June 2016, London

www.rcpsych.ac.uk/congress

I am pleased to inform you that your abstract entitled Efficacy and Safety of Oral Ketamine versus Diclofenac to Alleviate Mild to Moderate Depression in Chronic Pain Patients: A Double-Blind, Randomized, Controlled Trial has been accepted as an iPoster presentation at this year's Congress. iPosters will be available for viewing online and viewing stations at the venue during 27-30 June 2016.

It is with pleasure that I extend an invitation to you for the forthcoming International Congress of the Royal College of Psychiatrists, 27 - 30 June 2016. The meeting will be held in London with a programme to inspire learning.

We are committed to ensuring that attendees leave with an improved understanding of psychiatry and mental health and the interactions between mental health, neuroscience and the social and cultural context in which people live.

It promises to deliver high quality sessions and training courses that include the best presenters and cover the breadth and depth on current psychiatry.

The participation of overseas delegates is highly important given our College's rising international membership and growing roles and influence across the world. Our recent congresses and conferences have proved increasingly attractive to psychiatrists from around the globe and we are keen to continue to develop our relationships with other like-minded psychiatric organisations during our events. We hope that you will be able to attend. Please see the Congress web page for details of programme, registration fees and further information.

www.rcpsych.ac.uk/congress

Yours sincerely

Congress Team
Tel: 020 3701 2618

congress@rcpsych.ac.uk

www.rcpsych.ac.uk/congress