

Dr Farhad Salehzadeh

Dr. Farhad Salehzadeh completed his MD and Specialty of Pediatrics at the Tehran University of Medical Sciences followed by a fellowship of pediatric rheumatology at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, UBC Canada, under supervision of Dr Ross E Petty, where he was conducted to find his interest and to build his physician roles as a pediatric rheumatologist. He passed one more rheumatology course at Royal Children's Hospital RCH, Melbourne, Australia, under supervision of RCH team and Dr Rojer Allen. He is currently the head of the pediatric rheumatology division at Bouali Children's Hospital and FMF clinic, ArUMS, in Ardabil, IRAN. He is one of the initiatives and pioneers of modern pediatric rheumatology in Iran. He worked for more than 30 years in the field of pediatrics and 20 years in the field of rheumatic diseases of children. Following his work for 20 years in diagnosis and introducing of FMF patients as a common AID in Northwest of Iran, and creating the FMF registration center (www.fmfiran.ir) which included more than 600 FMF patients, today all rheumatologists in Northwest of Iran are familiar with AID and FMF. His expertise centers around autoinflammatory diseases, JIA, Palindromic Rheumatism in children, and childhood CNS Vasculitis.
